

Essay:

"A Railway Journey"

or

"A journey by train"

"Sometimes the journey is more beautiful than the destination."

There are moments in life when a simple journey becomes a treasure of memories. Travelling is not only a way to reach a place, but also a way to collect experiences. Among all the modes of travelling, a railway journey has its own charm. It is a blend of excitement, relaxation, and the joy of seeing the world pass by through the window.

"A journey is best measured in friends and family, not in miles."

~Tim Cahill

Last summer, my family decided to visit Murree to enjoy the weather and green hills. We chose to travel from Lahore by train, as it would allow us to enjoy the scenery along the way.

The idea of a train journey filled all of us with great excitement. We packed our bags with clothes, snacks, a camera, and some books for reading during the journey. On the day of departure, we reached the Lahore Railway Station early in the morning. The station was full of life. Porters were carrying luggage, vendors were selling tea and snacks, and passengers were talking and laughing. The loud whistle of arriving trains and the rhythmic sound of engines made the whole atmosphere energetic and lively.

"Every station is a small world where thousand of journeys begin."

Our train arrived on time, and we quickly found our seats. The journey began smoothly. The train slowly moved out of the station, and we waved goodbye to the city. We had brought sandwiches, fruits and bottles of water with us. We also carried a thermos of tea to enjoy during the trip. Everyone was in high spirits as the train gained speed.

As the train moved forward, the scenery outside changed from busy streets to the peaceful countryside. Green fields on both sides, swaying gently in the breeze, and farmers could be seen working with dedication, guiding their oxen or checking their crops. Occasionally, flocks of birds rose into the sky, creating graceful patterns against the ~~laxity~~ horizon. Small villages passed by, their brick houses clustered together, smoke curling lazily from kitchen chimneys. Children alongside the tracks. We crossed rivers that were shining under the sun. The cool, fresh air rushing in through the train windows, making the journey feeling ^{like a} story unfolding with every mile.

"With every turn of wheels, a new story begins..."

By afternoon, we reached Rawalpindi and then travelled by road to Murree. The weather there was cool and refreshing. The hills were covered with pine trees, and the clouds floated close to us. After reaching Murree, we visited Mall road, took many photographs. The evenings were filled with laughter as we strolled through the busy markets.

After two days of fun, it was time to return. We took the same train back to Lahore. This time, the journey felt calmer, and we spent most of it recalling the beautiful memories we had in Murree. As the train entered Lahore station, we felt both happy to be home and a little sad that the trip had ended.

"A good journey leaves you richer in memories than in possessions."

This journey remains one of the most memorable experiences of my life. It reminded me that in our busy schedules, we should make time to travel and spend moments with our loved ones. Such journeys refresh the mind, strengthen family bonds, and fill our hearts with joy. A railway journey, with its unique rhythmic charm, is truly a pleasure everyone should enjoy at least once in a lifetime.

"Sometimes, you will never know the value of a moment until it becomes a memory." ~ Dr. Seuss
